Mataderos

Sundees Son out to defend his title

Dunns set to dominate Dominion

John Dunn has two crucial pieces of information for punters playing into the $300,000 Renwick Farms Dominion at Addington.

The first and most important is defending champion Sundees Son is as ready as he was this time last year when he bolted away with the country's greatest trot race, which should just about be enough to see him repeat.

But Dunn's second opinion on the group one is slightly more surprising because in a hotshot field he rates another stable runner Mataderos as the upset hope in the race.

Mataderos is a former Australian trotter who has never stopped improving since joining the Dunns and John says he will relish the 3200m, even against his stablemate and other superstars like Muscle Mountain and Bolt For Brilliance.

"He has been beaten in his last two but both times he was coming back at the line," says Dunn of Mataderos, who will be driven by NZ Cup-winning reinsman Blair Orange.

"He is a better horse than many people realise and he begins quickly I can see him getting very hard and rolling on."

That raises the possible scenario of Mataderos charging to the lead and handing that pacemaking role to Sundees Son so the lesser-fancied stablemate is worth adding in exotic bets.

But it is Sundees Son who is the apple of Dunn's eye and when he has been at his best in the last two seasons he has been all but unbeatable.

His crown of dominance has occasionally wobbled over the last 12 months either when the Dunns don't have him screwed down or one of those young guns in Muscle Mountain or Bolt For Brilliance can get in front of him.

Neither of those factors appear to be a danger as Sundees Son has barrier three while Dunn says his beach work on Wednesday morning suggests he is bang on.

"He drove and trained beautifully and on that I'd say he is exactly where he needs to be," says Dunn.

"He is trotting squarely and feeling good which are always the best signs for him."

Sundees Son is unbeaten over 3200m, having won this race last year and the Rowe Cup twice so staying form simply doesn't get any better in this part of the world and he has so much respect it would seem any of the likely early leaders would be happy to take a trail on him.

For all the massive motors of Bolt For Brilliance and perhaps even more so Muscle Mountain they are going to need to be freakish to come around Sundees Son and beat him if he leads.

Punters worried about Sundees Son being drawn down low on the front line, a starting position rare for a horse who so often starts off handicaps, don't be: the last time he faces a similar situation was from barrier one in the Rowe Cup, he stepped beautifully, led and trotted his last 800m in 55.3 seconds to thrash Bolt For Brilliance.

The Dunns also have Chief Of Staff and Woodstone in the Dominion, with the former rated a follower who will be driven accordingly while Woodstone is having his last start on Friday with the stable happy to reward Korbyn Newman with a Group 1 drive before the 11-race winner is retired.

Darling Me searching for maiden stakes victory

Darling Me will be in search of her maiden stakes victory when she lines-up in the Listed Nevele R Sires' Stakes Southern Classic (1980m) at Addington Raceway on Friday.

The regally-bred daughter of Adore Me has had four prior stakes placings, three at Group One level, and trainers Steve and Amanda Telfer are hoping she can break through on Show Day.

The three-year-old filly has been in fine form this preparation, winning two of her four starts, placing in the other, including an impressive last start victory at Ashburton.

"She is really well, she came through her last run great," Amanda Telfer said.

"When Tim (Williams, driver) dropped her in for the trail, I think that was the winning of the race.

"She is a lovely filly and is running accordingly."

Darling Me had a subsequent 1980m trial at Addington earlier this month where she finished seventh, but Telfer said she did everything asked of her.

"She was just out there for a trial. Tim didn't push her around, he just worked off the watch and did what he wanted to do," she said.

Meanwhile, the Telfer barn will be hoping for some redemption from Dance Time when he contests the Gr.1 Spring Back With Mediaworks NZ Pacing FFA (1980m) after broke near the 1100m mark in the Gr.1 New Zealand Trotting Cup (3200m) on Tuesday, losing all chance.

"He went away, which actually was the surprise, and then galloped after that," Telfer said.

"Craig (Thornley, driver) said when the others came out he got a little bit field shy and threw his head up. Hopefully he doesn't do that again.

"He has come through the run great. He has got a good constitution and he should go alright, it's just a pity the others have drawn inside him."

On Friday the stable will also be represented by Kerri Maguire in the Avon City Ford Handicap Pace (2600m), Riverman Sam in the Graphite Developments LTD Show Day Futurity (2600m), and Allamericanlover in the XCM Sport Mobile Pace (1980m).

"Ellie (Barron, driver) was quite happy with Kerri Maguire (last start) until she got knocked over. A forward showing would be nice and she handles the stand quite well," Telfer said.

"Riverman Sam has been a bit hot and cold. He won that nice race and then he went awful at Ashburton.

"We have kept him away from the trials and races and hopefully it will do the trick. The wide draw is going to be the pain, but he seems to like the 2600m.

"Allamericanlover is a lovely filly who is in great form and any bit of luck she will be in the finish. She is the sort of horse that can make her own luck."

Dunn out to break All-Stars dominance

The All-Stars stable has dominated the Gr.1 NZ Pacing FFA (1980m) over recent years but Geoff Dunn is hoping to break their golden run at Addington Raceway on Friday.

The West Melton horseman won the race in 2015 with Tiger Tara, but since then Mark Purdon and Natalie Rasmussen have had a golden run, winning the last five editions of the race.

Dunn, who now trains in partnership with his son James, will line-up Laver in the Mediaworks-sponsored race and he said his charge will have his work cut out for him after drawing outside his key rivals in seven.

"The draw isn't fantastic and with all the ones drawn inside us it is going to be hard yakka," Dunn said.

"If he can run a place I will be really happy."

Laver finished sixth in the Gr.1 New Zealand Trotting Cup (3200m) on Tuesday and Dunn said the gelding has come through the race well.

"He has eaten up everything and seems really well," he said.

"I was pretty pleased with his run. He went a good race and was driven perfectly. It's just the first mile wasn't quick enough for us.

"We needed the first mile to be about 1:58 for him to really show his goods."

The All-Stars stable are pinning their hopes on the one horse to continue their winning ways, with the Mark Purdon and Hayden Cullen-trained Self Assured drawing barrier three after his runner-up effort behind Copy That in the New Zealand Cup earlier this week.

Meanwhile, Dunn will also back-up Sporty Celine XCM Sport Mobile Pace (1980m) after her hampered run on Cup Day.

Prior to Tuesday, the daughter of Sportswriter had won two of her three starts this preparation and Dunn is looking for a similar result on Friday.

"She was good (on Tuesday), she just copped a horrible check around the bend and had to dodge those two who locked wheels, and that was race over," he said.

"She was travelling nice and he (Gerard O'Reilly, driver) said she felt really good."
